Germans Reach Black Sea Coast Below Kerch; Reds Kill 71,000 Near Moscow

Army Paper Reports

Morale Is Lifted

Russians Show Gain in Confidence on Two Vital Fronts

(By The Associated Press)
Adolf Hitler's Crimean armies were reported to have reached the Black Sea coast today just below Kerch, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, while on the central front the Russians declared they had battled the Germans to a standstill with more than 70,000 Nazis killed and wounded in the 41-day drive on Moscow.

Red Star, the Soviet army newspaper, said Russian infantry, artillery and tanks smashing into the flank of two German divisions on the outskirts of Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, had put the invaders to rout and chased them for more than five miles.

Red Star said the Nazis abandoned arms and ammunition in their flight, leaving more than 500 slain, many wounded and 25 burned-out tanks. Only the arrival of reinforcements rushed up in trucks enabled the Germans to restore "some kind of balance," the newspaper said.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, Soviet correspondents said the Donets river basin was "engulfed in fire" . . . "conflagrations raging everywhere" . . . "pillars of flame and black smoke rising high to the skies."

On the whole, the Russians reflected growing confidence both in the Donets conflict and before Moscow.

Soviet dispatches admitted, however, that German troops had advanced to the vicinity of Narofominsk, 35 miles southwest of Moscow, but said the situation had been stabilized. The Germans said their advanced forces were within 13 miles of Moscow at one point.

Narofominsk lies on the Kaluga-Moscow highway about 30 miles east of Maloyaroslavets, the scene of heavy recent fighting.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons in London that Hitler had failed to drive Britain to her knees through a starvation blockade and thus might be forced to attempt an invasion "as soon as he can screw up his courage and make arrangements to take the plunge."

Jubilantly, Churchill proclaimed heavy gains against the Axis in the long war at sea and hinted at a counter-invasion of the Reich with the declaration that "in 1943 we shall have sufficient shipping to undertake overseas operations."

Simultaneously, King George VI, opening a new session of parliament, said "The United States is furnishing my people and my allies with war supplies of all kinds on a scale unexampled in history."

Churchill coupled his prediction of a B.E.F. invasion with an announcement that Britain and her allies had sunk or seriously damaged nearly 1,000,000 tons of Axis shipping over a four-month period ending in October and had drastically cut their own losses.

Destruction of Axis shipping, he said, "is proceeding with greater violence than before" and has struck such blows in the Mediterranean that "the enemy has found it very difficult to reinforce or even supply his armies on African shores."

British merchant shipping losses, it was announced, dropped from a 500,000-ton monthly average for four months ending in June to 180,000 tons per month over the next four months ending in October.

"That has been done," he said, "in spite of the fact that there were more U-boats or more (Continued on Page Two)

Bill of Rights Observance
Is Called for in State
Schools Feb. 15-21

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—The State Board of Regents today designated February 15-21 Bill of Rights Week and called for extensive observance by New York schools.

Sesqui-centennial observance of the federal bill of rights was scheduled for December 15.

Setting of the observance dates fulfills a 1940 addition to the state education law requiring the development of statewide understanding of the bill of rights articles in the federal and state constitutions.

Commercial Pilot

RUTH FRANCHLING

The honor of being the first woman from the county to receive a commercial pilot's license went to Ruth Franchling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fennell Franchling of Woodstock, when she passed all tests for the rating at the Albany Airport on Monday. Miss Franchling received her first instruction flight in August, 1940, and in November of the same year was given her private license. In just one year's time the necessary 200 flying hours were made from the Kingston Airport.

Helen Bennett Is Released in Court On Arson Charge

Indictment Is Dismissed Against Necessity; Is Released on Grounds of Disagreement

Helen Bennett, Ellenville, regressed, charged with arson, first degree, for an alleged firing of the premises where she lived, was discharged from custody this morning in county court and the indictment was dismissed on motion of Andrew J. Cook, Jr., who appeared for Miss Bennett. District Attorney N. LeVan Haver consented to the dismissal.

Last June the Bennett indictment was moved for trial and the jury after a trial of the bill disagreed. She was remanded to jail and has since been in custody. Mr. Cook moved for the dismissal of the bill on the grounds that in June a jury had been unable to agree and he said he believed the jury had stood 10 to 2 for discharge of the charge. In September the case had not been moved for re-trial, he said, and he told the court that he did not believe there was sufficient evidence to convict the defendant of the charge and for that reason he asked the court to dismiss the charge.

Mr. Haver said since the trial last June he had endeavored to secure additional information relating to the alleged crime but he had been unable to ascertain further facts and he said that he understood the jury had stood 10 to 2 for acquittal last June when the case was first tried and since no additional facts had been ascertained since then he believed the status of the case was now the same as last June and he consented to the dismissal of the indictment and discharge of the defendant.

Helen Bennett was arrested and charged with having set fire to her home after a quarrel with the man who also occupied the premises. She denied having been in the premises for some time prior to discovery of the fire and on the trial it was shown that the man who also resided at the same address had been in the house during the evening after she alleged she had absented herself from the place.

Green Sentence Suspended

Albert A. Green, who pleaded guilty to unlawful entry earlier this week, was sentenced to Elmira State Reformatory but service of the sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation and directed to report to Chief Probation Officer Lawrence M. Jensen.

John LeRoy, who pleaded guilty to assault, was sentenced to jail for six months. LeRoy was represented by Michael Nardone when he entered his plea.

The Robert P. Mayer and Tyler Hughes, Jr., burglary and unlawful entry charges were postponed until later and the Howard Whitaker indictment was postponed until Monday at 10 o'clock on request of William A. Kaercher.

Togo Tells Tokyo Council of Two Anglo-U. S. Talks

News Headlines Show Ire
at Knox Statements; Council Examines Croat Protocol

Tokyo, Nov. 12 (AP)—Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo discussed the speeches of British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and United States Navy Secretary Frank Knox before a plenary session of the Privy Council at the imperial palace this morning.

The session was devoted to the foreign minister's explanation of the international situation, brought to sharp focus by Churchill's statement that a British declaration of war would follow within the hour of any outbreak of war between Japan and the United States.

Newspaper headlines expressed irritation at Knox's statements yesterday "that grave questions are about to be decided—that the hour of decision is here" and that further American forbearance toward Japan would be misunderstood.

The Privy Council also examined a protocol recognizing the participation of Croatia in former Yugoslavia in the three-power pact of Japan, Germany and Italy.

The flight of special Envoy Saburo Kurosu to Washington in an attempt to revive deadlocked negotiations was cited by Miyako as evidence of Japan's intention to maintain peace.

"Firing of poisonous gun at Kurosu," was its headline over a special story from New York telling of the secretary's Armistice Day address in Providence, R. I.

"Knox provocative speech at Kurosu," was its headline over a special story from New York telling of the secretary's Armistice Day address in Providence, R. I.

Nichi Nichi declared, "Knox reveals America's intention to advance in the Pacific."

"The world war breaks out, America is responsible," was Yomiuri's headline.

(The German wireless carried a Tokyo dispatch saying the Japanese foreign office announced that four naval stations would be styled defense stations and each would be placed in charge of a naval commander in chief November 20. This probably means that facilities at these stations, ranking below major naval bases, are to be increased.)

(The stations were listed as Ominato, facing Tsugaru Straits between the Japanese islands of Hokkaido and Honshu; Shinshu, Korea, facing Chosen Straits; Mako, situated on the Pescadores Islands west of Formosa; and Port Arthur, which guards the Yellow Sea approach to North China and Manchukuo.)

A Japanese spokesman declined comment on the Knox speech.

Dreier Is Banned

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Alex Dreier, Berlin correspondent of the National Broadcasting Company, today notified his office that he was banned from the air because of differences arising over canons as a small arms expert, returned to Texas this week after a 15-day furlough during which he visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Brown at 176 Lucas avenue. "Jim" has been recuperating after a three weeks siege with malaria following participation in army maneuvers in the south.

Sees Blow to Colleges

Cleveland, Nov. 12 (AP)—Half the liberal arts colleges in the United States will be out of existence in 10 years, predicts Dr. Raymond F. McInnis, president of Transylvania College, of Lexington, Ky. Increased taxes and the diminished rate of return from investments will bring about the change, he declared at an alumni meeting here.

President Has Cold

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt suffered from a head cold today and remained in his oval study to do some paper work. He made no engagements.

The chief executive stood bareheaded and without an overcoat in the amphitheatre at Arlington National Cemetery yesterday while he delivered an Armistice Day address.

Stamp Purchasing Plan Might Place Curb on Inflation

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—A formula for applying the brakes to inflation and prices through a forced stamp plan system of savings was reported under consideration in administration circles today.

The plan, said to have originated with Vice-President Wallace, was being studied by some congressional leaders with the thought that it might provide not only a curb on threatened inflationary price increases but also might open a relatively untapped field for treasury borrowing.

As reportedly outlined by Wallace and others, the scheme would require the retail purchases of designated commodities to pay for a fixed quantity of defense savings stamps in order to obtain possession of the article they were buying.

Thus a man who desired to get a small $10 radio might be forced to buy $1 worth of defense savings stamps in order to complete his purchase. When a consumer had accumulated sufficient stamps, he could turn these in on a government bond which would be cashable after the emergency ended.

Engineer of Fast N.Y. Central Train Is Killed in Wreck

New York to Chicago 'Mail' Plows Into Derailed Freight in Suburb of Rochester

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—The engineer of a fast New York Central mail train, bound from New York to Chicago, was killed today when his locomotive plowed into a derailed freight car near suburban Wayneport.

K. A. Borntrager, superintendent of the Rochester division, said the freight was moving east when a car jumped the tracks directly in the path of the westbound mail train. Four cars of the mail train also were derailed.

The engineer, identified as Robert McColgan, Buffalo, was crushed to death in his cab. Several mail clerks were injured slightly, but 23 passengers in two sleeping cars, booked to Buffalo and Detroit, escaped harm.

A spokesman at the New York city office of the railroad said the wreck was caused when a drawbar dropped on the freight causing derailment of a car. The car was pitched across the adjoining passenger tracks.

Supervisors Organize For Canvass of Vote

Meeting at noon today as a county board of canvassers to canvass the vote cast at the general election on November 4, the Ulster County Board of Supervisors was called to order by Townsend S. Fitzgerald, president of the Ulster County Board of Elections, who explained the purpose of the meeting to the 17 members present.

Edwin W. Ashby was elected chairman of the board of canvassers and Supervisors Cashdollar and Grimm were appointed to escort the chairman to his seat. After the constitutional oath had been administered to the chairman and members of the county board of canvassers the following committees were appointed by Chairman Ashby:

Committee on examination of returns: Supervisors Roosa, Phinney and Rifenbary.

Committee on reading returns: Supervisors Murray, Donovan and Duffy.

Committee on tabulation: Supervisors DuBois, Rogers and Wood.

The board of canvassers then recessed until 2 o'clock when the tabulation of returns was begun after the committee on examination of returns had reported returns in proper form for canvass.

Manslaughter Charges Are Placed Against Two Filling Station Men

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP)—As the death toll in an outdoor drinking party rose to nine, District Attorney William C. Crossley said today he had placed manslaughter charges against two filling station attendants for allegedly selling an anti-freeze solution to the men for drinking purposes.

"They sold without any license and with the knowledge that these people were going to drink," said Crossley. "These deaths justify us in placing charges of manslaughter against both of them."

He said the attendants, George Ryan, 25, and Alfred L. Bernier, 25, would be arraigned today in district court.

When the ninth man died, the two others lay in serious condition from after effects of the drinking session.

One survivor, apparently unaffected by the drinks, cheerfully

Decision Nears on Coal Mine Question; Army Establishes Center for Intelligence Work

Smith Urges U. S. End Its Sabotage Of Defense Work

Virginia Democrat Says He Would Vote 'No' on Neutrality Bill Because of This

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—Representative Smith (D-Va.), speaking directly to administration leaders working to keep party lines intact for neutrality revision, declared today that he would vote against the legislation unless the government "puts a stop" to the labor dictatorship he said was sabotaging the defense effort.

Smith, who said he had voted for all previous defense legislation, said that because of the "unruly elements in our midst," he was not prepared to support the proposed revision to permit merchant ships to travel to belligerent ports.

Speaker Rayburn, however, told reporters he was confident of passage by a "substantial majority."

Meanwhile, it became known that Republican leaders at a morning conference came to the conclusion that "we have this administration bill licked."

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn.), one of the two present House members who voted against the World War declaration of the Congress in 1917, and who called the meeting, told newspapermen:

"We have this administration bill licked. We figure that there will be only from 18 to 20 Republicans voting for it and maybe less. That will leave 142 against it."

"We figure there are four or five doubtfuls on our side and if we can get these lined up, there will be no question of the final vote."

The speaker told his press conference he felt "all right about this vote."

Apprehension Is Felt

Other leaders had found some cause for apprehension in the possibility that continued defense strikes might cost them sorely needed votes for the administration legislation.

"When you have everybody in the executive departments, including Secretary of State Hull, and everyone in the army and navy believing that this action is necessary for the peace and safety of the United States," Rayburn declared, "I'm confident that this resolution will pass by a substantial vote."

In response to questions as to whether he thought the proposed amendments would take the nation closer to war, the speaker replied that he thought defeat of the resolution would "come a great deal nearer being provocative of war" than would its approval.

Two Republicans took the floor of the House to denounce in minute speeches at the opening of the session the resignations from the defense mediation board of Philip Murray and Thomas Kennedy, C. I. O. president and United Mine Workers secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Rep. Rich (R-Pa.) told the House that "with the C. I. O. it's attitude ever since passage of the Wagner Act."

Calling attention to a pending bill providing for a "cooling off" period before defense strikes can occur, Rich said:

"It's up to Congress to act or you're liable to see trouble. In order to avert let's act as the elected representatives of the people, and if you don't it may be too late."

Murray Resigns From Mediation Board

Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O. and vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America, raps a table in Washington as he announces that he and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the U. M. W., are resigning from the National Defense Mediation Board. Murray announced the resignations, angrily protesting the board's ruling against a union shop in "captive" coal mines.

Finland Spurns U. S. Warning To End War Against Russians

Bose Trip to Axis Territory Gives British Concern

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Freeman Special News Service)

The Hitlerian threat to India—long the coveted dream-land of German expansionists (not to mention Japanese)—comes to the fore again through the official announcement at New Delhi that Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian leftist political leader, "has gone over to the enemy" and is believed to be in Berlin or Rome, pledged "to assist by fifth column methods any German invasion of India."

This creates a situation which must cause Britain uneasiness, especially since India has become one of the world's chief arsenals. However, there is no suggestion that the government won't be able to handle any difficulties which may arise.

Bose—a fiercely burning brand—has been head of the left wing of the All India Congress, Mohandas Gandhi's organization which represents untold millions of followers of the ascetic little Mahatma. Since the war, however, Bose and Gandhi developed a fierce controversy over policy.

Both the Mahatma and Bose are out for "Puran Swaraj"—absolute independence—from England. But Gandhi, though after his own fashion he can be as tough as they make 'em, has his own code of fair play and under this he refused to take advantage of Britain's extremity. Bose, on the other hand, took the attitude that England's extremity was India's opportunity, and wanted to exact independence while the going seemed good.

Only One Outcome

Well, there could be only one outcome to that argument. Bose was soundly beaten, for there is no other man among Hindus' three hundred fifty millions who has the power that is wielded by the aged and feeble Gandhi. Hosts throughout the land literally worship the Mahatma as a divinity, despite his protests.

So Bose, judging from the government information, has adopted another line of attack. From now on he presumably will work on his people by indirection. As for himself, he may never see his home-land again, for he is said to be suffering from tuberculosis.

Agitators always can find some fertile Indian soil in which to sow the seed of disaffection, as the desire for independence runs strong and the resentment of English overlordship is bitter in some sections. The Indians, too, are an inflammable race.

Murray, Other C. I. O. Officials Resign From Mediation Board as Protest

Confidence Wanes

Murray, Kennedy Tell F. D. R. Labor Lacks Faith in Board

(By The Associated Press)
A dramatic test of strength in the captive coal mine labor dispute today approached decision, and the result seemed sure to have far-reaching effects on the entire defense labor situation.

The stage was set in swift moves yesterday.

High C. I. O. officials, one after another, resigned from the national defense mediation board in protest to that body's 9-to-2 recommendation against the union shop in the captive coal pits operated by the big steel companies.

The army, in a precautionary action looking toward a possible emergency, established an intelligence center in Pittsburgh, where the coal from the captive mines fuels steel mills essential to the government's defense plans.

In Congress, some members were pressing hard for strike-detering legislation, and others were said to be reluctant to ease neutrality act restrictions unless steps were taken to avoid defense work stoppages at home.

Philip Murray, C. I. O. president and vice president of the United Mine Workers, and Thomas Kennedy, U. M. W. secretary-treasurer, resigned forthwith from the mediation board and wrote President Roosevelt that the board's recommendation against the C. I. O.'s union shop demand had "made it impossible for labor to retain any confidence in its future action." Murray announced that four C. I. O. alternate members of the board had resigned, that a fifth planned to, and that the attitude of a sixth was unknown to him.

The United Mine Workers struck at the captive pits for three days last month, demanding the union shop, under the terms of which all employees would be required to become union members after a specified period of probation. The strike, affecting 53,000 men, was ended by a truce until November 15 to permit the mediation board to formulate its recommendations.

John L. Lewis, the union's deep-voiced, stocky president, has made no public statement on the board's recommendation. But he has called a special session of the U. M. W. policy committee at Washington Friday, evidently for a decision on the matter. As U. M. W. president, Lewis is also the leader of 330,000 employees of commercial coal mines.

Effect Is Uncertain

Just how the withdrawal of the C. I. O. members would affect the mediation board was uncertain. It has 24 disputes pending, involving 142,000 workers. One possible indication came last night, when R. J. Thomas, president of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, directed union representatives to postpone presentation of any cases before the board because it had no C. I. O. representation.

A strike which had vexed navy officials and interfered with work on $25,000,000 in naval and marine construction around San Diego, Calif., was settled last night and officials of A. F. L. building trades unions said the 2,164 strikers would be back to work at noon today.

The navy had reconsidered a previous ultimatum which declared the men must return by 8 a. m. or their places would be filled by civil service workers.

The strike began last Thursday to enforce a demand for a $1-a-day wage increase. The old scales ranged from $6 a day for laborers to $11 for electricians. A union (Continued on Page 14) long-range aircraft working than there are now."

Germans Reach Black Sea Coast

And he added cheerfully: "There is nothing Hitler and his Nazi regime dread more than proof we are capable of fighting a long war and proof of their failure to starve us into submission."

The speaker warned, however, that Britain must be prepared with the return of good weather next spring to "meet and check" Hitler if he attempts an invasion.

A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters said German and Rumanian troops had planted their battleflags on the eastern shore of the Crimea after "sharp pursuit fighting," and Nazi front-line dispatches reported that Kerch itself was jammed with fleeing Red army troops.

If true, the arrival of Axis forces along the Kerch strait would mean a critical stage had been reached in the battle of the Crimea. Less than four miles wide, the strait presumably would offer only a minor obstacle to Nazi veterans of the conquest of Crete across 75 miles of open water. Beyond the strait, on the Caucasian mainland, are situated the great wells providing much of Russia's oil supply.

The Germans said their dive-bombers were inflicting havoc both at Kerch and Sevastopol, destroying port facilities and causing great losses in men and material.

Nazi Threat Increases

The German threat to Sevastopol was also apparently increasing, the Russians acknowledging they had withdrawn from the rail town of Bakhchisarai, 30 miles northeast of the big Black Sea naval base.

On the central front, S. A. Lozovsky, official Soviet spokesman, declared the position of the Red armies before Moscow was "considerably better" and that Hitler's six-week-old offensive against the capital had failed.

The Russians said Hitler threw 19 divisions—about 285,000 troops—as well as 1,000 tanks and 900 planes into the drive starting October 2 and planned to enter the capital on October 16.

Hit by terrific losses, the Germans were now reported bringing up masses of fresh reserves to meet fierce Soviet counter-attacks.

Nazi military dispatches acknowledged that a fantastic system of underground tank garages, rows of buried flame-throwers and huge mine fields around Moscow's 200-mile defense are made the going slow and hazardous.

Nevertheless, the Germans insisted their vanguards had advanced within 50 kilometers (31 miles) of the capital.

Soviet front-line reports said the Germans had lost 1,000 killed in four days of bloody fighting around Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, but a Russian broadcast admitted that Tula's defenders "have had to retreat slightly" and that the Red army position was serious there.

Finland's decision to fight on as an ally of Germany—despite Secretary of State Cordell Hull's warning that by doing so she would forfeit United States friendship—was paced by a mounting German threat against Leningrad.

Nazi dispatches said the German northern armies had followed up the capture of Tikhvin, 110 miles southeast of Leningrad, by a further sweep north toward Lake Ladoga, aimed at completing the encirclement of the old czarist capital.

Hitler's high command said renewed Soviet attempts to break out of Leningrad had been repulsed with "heavy bloody losses."

Butts Price Jumps

Vichy, Unoccupied France, Nov. 12 (AP)—The price of cigarette butts in Paris has reached the new high of 25 francs (about 55 cents) for 50, reports from the occupied capital said today. Butt dealers—a new business—reported a greater demand than they were able to satisfy.

Child Will Recover From Her Injuries

Physician Seems to Be Happiest of All

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 12 (AP)—It appeared today that Audrey McNamara, seven-year-old county ward, would survive serious automobile accident injuries, and nobody was happier than Dr. Lawrence Tierney of West Haven.

It was to Dr. Tierney's office that the little girl was brought last week, suffering from a brain concussion, fractured pelvis and ruptured bladder after an automobile knocked her down.

He rushed her to a hospital, and the child, who never lost consciousness, turned to him just before being taken to the operating room and said simply "please don't let me die."

Dr. Tierney promised she would be all right; and has been praying since that his promise could be kept. Hard-boiled West Haven cops, to whom accident reports are part of the day's routine, have been praying too.

And today, came welcome news from the hospital that Audrey, on the danger list since the accident, no longer was considered in critical condition.

Maybe two dolls, which somehow found their way from the stand of an amusement park concessionaire to the police station, and thence to Audrey's hospital cot, helped a little.

U. S. Navy Plane Will Visit City

Craft to Be at Airport Next Wednesday

One of the U. S. Navy airplanes will land at the Kingston Airport on Wednesday morning, November 19, at 10 o'clock.

The plane will be a Beachcraft, one of the special Navy transport ships, and aboard it will be Lt. Commander Albert F. Rice, U. S. N. R., who is senior member of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board at the Floyd Bennett Field, Lt. Hayes Browning, U. S. N. R., pilot; Lt. J. G. Roland W. Cramer, U. S. N. R., third naval district public relations officer.

The plane is making this flying visit to Kingston for the purpose of explaining the opportunities existing in the U. S. Naval Reserve, to young men interested in the subject and to their parents.

With expansion of the U. S. Navy now well under way and running ahead of construction schedule, the need for men in virtually all classifications is greatly increased.

Apple trees of any variety set on poorly drained soils will be shorter-lived and less profitable than trees of the same variety set on well drained soils.

Greenspan Arraigned

Louis Greenspan, 16, of 18 Wurts street, driver of a truck which met with an accident near Golden Rule Inn on June 15, last, while returning to Kingston with several youths after a picnic at Ulster Park, was arraigned on a charge of criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle resulting in the death of Murray Sehechter, 15, of this city, who was riding in the truck. Arthur Ewig appeared for Greenspan and a plea of not guilty was entered and bail continued. Mr. Ewig moved for 20 days time to make further motions and also for a copy of the indictment. This was granted.

Court recessed until 2 o'clock without a jury and all jurors were excused until Monday next at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Illness Hits Elephants

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 12 (AP)—Illness struck today at six more elephants in a circus herd already reduced by the death of 10 animals in Atlanta. Walter McClain, chief elephant keeper for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's Circus, said six elephants refused to eat this morning, adding "that's a sure way to tell when these big fellows are sick."

First Hess Report On Nazis Given

Churchill's Talk Before Commons Reveals Hess Statement

London, Nov. 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today gave the first official insight into the plans of Adolf Hitler obtained in questioning of Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former deputy who landed in Scotland last May.

"In various remarks which Deputy Fuehrer Hess has let forth from time to time during his sojourn in our midst nothing has been more clear than that Hitler relied on a starvation attack even more than invasion to bring us to our knees," Churchill told the House of Commons.

Previously the prime minister had demurred at parliamentary questions about conversations with Hess.

In a recent broadcast Premier Stalin said the purpose of Hess' flight from Germany was to enlist Britain on the side of Germany against Russia.

Since Russia now is an ally of Britain it was assumed in some quarters that Stalin had been given authoritative information on Hess. Churchill also said the United States government was kept fully informed on Hess.

Action Is Deferred

Washington, Nov. 12 (AP)—The House judiciary committee deferred until tomorrow action on a resolution directing it to report whether a grand jury subpoena for Representative Fish (R-N. Y.) invaded the privileges of members of Congress. Fish was closeted with the committee for 15 minutes today. Chairman Sumners (D-Tex.) declined to disclose what the New Yorker told the members. "You can just say he was talking," Sumners said.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10c and 25c.

Harry Bryam Dies

Fairfield, Conn., Nov. 12 (AP)—Harry E. Bryam, 75, prominent railroad executive, died yesterday after a two months' illness at his home here. He was chairman of the board, and formerly president, of the Milwaukee Railroad, but had been in virtual retirement since the line went into receivership six years ago. Funeral services will be held from the home Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with burial in Fairfield. He leaves his widow, the former Mrs. Frances Evans, who was his fourth wife; a daughter, Mrs. Helen Burdick of Westport; a sister and two grandchildren.

Communist Wins

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Peter V. Caccione today became the first Communist candidate to win elective office in New York city when tabulation of proportional representation ballots cast last Tuesday showed that he had won a seat in the city council. He was one of seven members chosen from Brooklyn.

Drive to Get Aid From Girl Scouts

Troops of Area Volunteer Help at First Call

The call for volunteer workers to aid in the Christmas Seal drive had scarcely gone out last week when Mrs. Ruth Brinnier, county commissioner of Girl Scouts, telephoned campaign headquarters of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Committee and reminded the general chairman, Joseph M. Fowler, that Girl Scouts would be glad to do what they could.

"The Girl Scouts want to do their part in this health defense program," said Mrs. Brinnier, who went on to explain that a lot of letters were waiting to be mailed out to prospective Christmas Seal buyers. The letters are inserted in envelopes, sealed and stamped. Several afternoons and evenings the Girl Scouts already have worked with but one interruption—the Kingston High School parade to the stadium for the football game Saturday afternoon. Eight members of the troops number 3, 4, 5, 8 and 9 and 22 of Kingston and number 19 of Port Ewen with their leaders are taking part in this important community project.

Teller to Give Report At Architects' Session

The Mid-Hudson Valley Architectural Society will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Swan Inn, Poughkeepsie, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. President Gordon S. Marvel, Newburgh, will preside.

The feature of the evening will be a report by Past President Myron S. Teller, Kingston, on the New York State Association of Architects' Convention held at Syracuse on September 16, 17 and 18. Mr. Teller, a director of the state association, who with Harry Halverson, Kingston, represented the society as delegates, will review for the local members the program of policy on national and state-wide subjects and events discussed at the convention.

A round table discussion will follow Mr. Teller's report. All members are urged to be present in order that they may gain first hand information of importance to their professional practice, and to discuss a form of local policy to be adopted in the future on the basis of present trends.

New York Briefs

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Fire raged through a two-story fuel oil and kerosene storage plant in Brooklyn last night but was prevented from spreading to storehouses nearby where there were 900,000 gallons of oil. Origin of the fire was not determined.

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—A northbound Third Avenue elevated train crashed into the rear of another train early last night at 143rd street, the Bronx, causing minor injuries to 14 persons.

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Capt. Charles Nelson, 65, of the coal lighter N. J. Rudolf, leaped to safety on the deck of a nearby freighter last night as his lighter capsized while loading coal aboard the freighter.

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Commerce and Industry Association of New York, Inc., announced yesterday that material shortages might cause the unemployment of thousands of workers in small concerns within the next 90 days. The announcement was based on a survey by the association.

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Charles Halaiki, 57, an unemployed Bronx chef, was booked early today on a charge of homicide in the knife slaying of Ignatz Pitura, 64, in an alley alongside the apartment building where they both lived. Halaiki was arrested after police found a blood-stained towel in the bathroom of his apartment. Police said Halaiki was found in the basement of the building, his hands and clothing stained with blood, soon after Pitura's body was discovered.

Gibbons Can Swing Forty Feet; Make Good Pets

"Wahoo! Wahoo!" That is what gibbons call out at the break of day. The sound echoes through the woods. Perhaps a dozen of the animals call it, or shout it, in a chorus.

A gibbon is an ape, and like other apes, it doesn't have a tail. It is found wild in islands of the East Indies, also in certain parts of southern Asia. Siam, or Thailand, is one of the places on the mainland of Asia where there are many gibbons.

For the most part, gibbons live in trees. Clinging to branches with the hands at the end of their long arms, they are experts at traveling from branch to branch. In the forests of Sumatra there are gibbons which can make 30 or 40 feet in a swing from one branch to another! The gibbon is the smallest member of the ape family. It seldom is more than three feet tall.

Gibbons stay in trees most of the time, but it is possible for them to run along the ground.

A gorilla can walk on two legs, but does not have so much skill in this field as a gibbon. While walking or running, a gibbon keeps himself in balance by stretching out his arms, or by placing his hands behind his neck.

Some gibbons do not cry "Wahoo!" at dawn. Instead they shout "Hoo-lock!" Such gibbons live in Thailand and Sumatra, and have the special name of "Hoolocks." When they cry out in chorus, we might almost think they were singing. They have their chorus at sunset as well as at dawn.

War Priorities May Make Cotton Hose Expensive

While cotton stockings may be the hope of the American woman for the future, don't get the idea that cotton hose are going to be extremely cheap; at least none of the kinds that look worth much. Because cotton sells for about 18 cents a pound while silk is over $2 a pound this might at first seem true. But this is not so.

Cotton stockings now on sale run around $1 a pair and the price for the better ones probably will not be less than this, and perhaps more. The reason?

America has plenty of raw cotton—millions of bales of it in storage—but America does not have the yarn-spinning machines needed to convert this cotton into fine lisle yarns. One way to try to solve this dilemma is to build more cotton-spinning machines to handle the fine fibre production but that route to success gets all tangled up with the machine tool trade and priorities, for a spinning machine is a most intricate machine.

The newest advance in cotton stocking production is to try to put more elasticity into the fibres by chemical treatment. The big trouble with the cotton stockings of the past is that when they stretched they stayed stretched, resulting in that bug-a-boo of women—stockings that bag and wrinkle at the ankles.

Beer-Drinking Goat

Because he took to beer, Barney, a white angora goat and the most photographed mascot in the fighting forces, has been discharged from the army. For a year he had been mascot of a garrison battalion.

Barney brought disgrace upon himself when he undertook a tour of North Sydney, Australia, hotels with a man. After several beers, Barney dashed from the hotel and climbed a shelf in a confectionary shop. He swept bottles of candies from the shelf, then bolted into a vegetable market, where he feasted on tomatoes. He was "arrested," taken to a police station and locked up for three days.

When members of the garrison located him they were presented with a bill for $30 damages.

He has now been given to a man who has undertaken to give him suitable food.

Nazism Not Hitler's

Hitler didn't even originate Nazism, but copied the idea from someone else. While Adolf was still a corporal in the First World War, another Austrian named Walter Riehl had cooked up a form of national socialism which included exaltation of the state, scorn of the church and castigation of the Jews. Adolf got in touch with this Austrian lawyer in post-war days and became, first, one of his devotees, then a lieutenant; but they split when Hitler insisted on pulling off an armed putsch in 1923 from that Munich beer hall.

Youth Urged to Raise More Food

Many Federal Agencies Will Offer Loans

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 12 — Farm boys and girls are being encouraged to increase supplies of foods needed by this country through projects on pigs, calves, and chickens, according to word received from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Both the Farm Credit and Farm Security Administrations are prepared to make loans to members of 4-H clubs and other rural youth groups—as well as to unaffiliated farm youngsters with responsible sponsors—to make more such work possible than in the past.

F.S.A. will make loans to children of its borrowers where funds are otherwise unavailable, and F.C.A. will make loans through local production credit associations. The Extension Service, in cooperation with state agricultural colleges, will help to launch many of the projects, it is announced.

Many 4-H clubs and other rural groups have raised various foods as part of their work in the past. Last year, for instance, 4-H members grew 237,000 home gardens, 177,000 raised poultry, 150,000 raised pigs, and 74,000 had dairy cattle. The aim now is to increase the number of farm boys and girls growing foods deemed most vital to America.

Their contributions of milk, eggs, pork, and vegetables will not only add to needed supplies in the country but will make possible in many instances an improved diet for themselves and families, it is pointed out.

There will be a meeting of the teachers of the Reformed Church Sunday school this evening at 8 o'clock at the parsonage.

The Men's Community Club softball team will play the Reformed Lutheran team tomorrow night in Kingston. Cars will leave the church at 7:45 o'clock.

Bulgarian Peasants Given Farms

Sofia (AP)—Landless Bulgarian peasants and poor farmers have profited from the restoration of Dobrudja to Bulgaria—some of them at the cost of former Jewish landowners. Some 15,000 Bulgarian immigrants from northern Dobrudja have been settled in the southern part of the area, where they have been given 316,000 acres of land and 13,680 dwellings. Another 160,000 acres were distributed to 7,000 landless peasants and 13,960 farmers who did not have enough land. The ministry of agriculture decided to buy ten thousand acres of farm land belonging to Jews.

PROOF OF SUCCESS

A rather unusual statement was made by a winning mayoralty candidate after the election. He thanked friends and fellow citizens for support during the campaign and at the polls. Then he added these words:

"We know not what our future lot may be. The present occasion should not be one of rejoicing, but one of solemn dedication by each of us to do, unselfishly, his humble part in preserving our city, our nation and our American way of life. While victory seemingly has come to me today, its full enjoyment will not and cannot be mine unless and until, at the end of my administration, I have shown the people, by my service to them and by my loyalty to the trust they have placed in my hands, that their confidence has not been misplaced."

There is something for all elected officials to think about as they assume new duties.

INDUSTRIAL EXHAUSTION

Many observers have thought, or hoped, that the tremendous energy shown in Hitler's war would play out in time, from the exhaustion of German manpower. There have been some indications of that lately as a result of the tremendous human losses in the Russian campaign.

But there is another factor, operating along with the human wear and tear, which may be more important. That is the industrial decline which comes from excessive efforts to keep armies supplied with war materials. Dr. Carl Luer, leading Nazi industrialist, is quoted as saying that this mechanical deterioration in the present war is at least $2,000,000,000 a year, and that it is almost impossible to repair or replace machinery during the struggle.

An American business commentator says studies made by him indicate that a similar situation was the main factor in causing German defeat in the last war. "The provision made for wear and tear in the war years," he explains, "was so inadequate that the fall of 1918 saw Germany's industrial plant, her transportation system and her entire supply of capital goods so completely run down at the heel that they were wholly incapable of supplying the armies in the field with the materials necessary to meet the growing strength of the Allied forces."

The suggestion that the same thing is happening now is encouraging to Americans. But obviously it can benefit us only if we take special care to keep our own system of industrial production in good condition as we go along. We should be able to do this, even while arming other countries, because our own manufacturing facilities are so much greater than Germany's.

LITTLE FRIEND FINLAND

The Finnish problem seems to have been handled rather roughly by Britain and America, in efforts to get Finland out of its war against Russia. Naturally that courageous little republic still fears and distrusts the Reds after all the harsh and unjust treatment it has received in that quarter.

At the same time it has seemed to Americans strange and lamentable that a brave, clean little democracy like Finland should, for any reason, be linked with Hitler, who has wrought so much devilry in Europe. And Russia, which now needs friends, is willing to be good. Stalin has been inviting Finland to make peace, offering rather liberal concessions.

The big democracies might underwrite such offers, guaranteeing Finnish territory and independence. Hitler, who evidently thinks he has a lien on Finland's services, would be very mad if Finland withdrew from the war; but the Finns, with British-American backing, should be able to ignore that factor.

BETTER LIVING

Even while this horrible war goes on, we can see here and there shapes of a better future. In industry and housing, for example.

Our industrial plants in general are much improved, not merely in mechanical efficiency but in their human aspects. Factories are far more cleanly and spacious and better supplied with air and light, so that even women workers often find them pleasant to work in. There are many industrial plants where the workers, if they like, can handle their jobs in street clothes without soiling them, and can go to and from their work almost undistinguishable from business men.

Great improvement, too, is often found now in the homes and general environment of industrial workers. Clean little settlements spring up in the vicinity of mills or mines, in striking contrast with the old-fashioned ugliness.

This kind of progress is more evident so far in England than in our own country, possibly because it was more needed there. Even with Britain up to the neck in war, improvements in housing are undertaken on a vast scale. Model towns are built in the fields, in small groups each housing about 100 workers, with all necessary shops and services and modern facilities for community life, centrally heated, and so on. Such developments, no doubt, will be vastly expanded when the war is over.

The Nazis succeed chiefly because they're fast workers, and the democracies fail because they're too slow.

In these perilous times political parties, too, have to check over their manpower.

In view of all you hear nowadays, maybe the deaf are lucky.

Some thrifty people are beginning to pick up pins again.

Life nowadays is an endless series of detours.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE COMMON COLD

A few years ago drug manufacturers were spreading the knowledge of the value of alkaline drugs in the treatment of the common cold. This advertising by newspaper and radio became so extensive that the public began to doubt the correctness of the statements made and, at present, less is said about the blood and tissues of the body.

What about the treatment of the common cold by use of alkalis?

As a matter of fact, physicians recognize that in most ailments, including the common cold, the blood and tissues lose some of their alkaline reserve and approach more nearly an acid condition. It is only good sense, therefore, to use an alkali in the treatment of a cold, particularly sodium and calcium.

Research workers have been able to bring on all the symptoms of a cold by the use of substances that make the blood and tissues less alkaline, even to the point of causing some rise in temperature.

By simply giving the patient a large dose of an alkali, all the symptoms of the cold promptly disappear.

What causes the common cold? The active organism causing a cold is too small to be seen under a microscope but is apparently in us and around us at all times and only waits for us to become run down, be exposed to cold or a draught, or undergo some emotional disturbance in order to set up symptoms.

Cold weather, exposure, emotional disturbances, loss of sleep, loss of the ability to fight off the tiny organisms causing colds and also organisms causing other ailments. Most of us are familiar with the dry mouth and acid taste that occurs when we get excited or upset.

The fact then is that as an acid or rather less alkaline condition of the blood and tissues is present with a cold, taking an alkali is good treatment.

What alkali should be taken? In most cases ordinary baking soda is effective. As baking soda upsets many individuals, another alkali or combination of alkalis may be taken.

Training For Defense
 New Paltz, Nov. 11.—The State Supervisor of the Defense Training Program in New York State visited the defense training courses at John Shands' garage, North Chestnut street, last week where 50 young men were busily engaged in many and varied activities such as welding with acetylene, welding with electricity, cutting steel, drilling steel, cleaning cylinders, taking motors apart, repairing generators, soldering, threading bolts and other mechanical jobs. The instructors and young men are co-operating to make the program as effective as possible for all concerned. On Thursday evening, November 6, Kenneth Simpson, manager of the Kingston office of the New York State Employment service, conferred with the young men who are interested in obtaining work in the various fields for which they are now training. Tuesday evening John Fall gave an interesting talk to the welding classes on metallurgy and welding. Mr. Fall has had wide experience and thorough training in this work and his talk was followed with a discussion period. Members of the Supervisory Board for the Defense Courses are: Frank Van Gonsic, Frank Elliott, Edward C. Elmore, John Shand, Ray Cunningham and M. Sheely.

Children Play Piccolo

New Paltz, Nov. 11.—A Piccolo class has been organized in the fourth grade in the Vandenberg School of Practice. The Piccolo is a basic instrument with a tone similar to the flute and piccolo. It is easy to play and the mechanics of the instrument is like the clarinet, saxophone and flute, the piccolo is taught in the fourth grade only. After this training the children are permitted to transfer to a symphonic instrument in the Fifth grade. Children enrolled to date are: Ethel Ashton, Helen Brown, Gerald Bostock, Lester Crans, Adelaide Dearnley, Margaret Diebach, Geraldine Fellows, Robert Herzon, Joan Heinsohn, Marie McBreen, Jill Miller, George Marion, Marilyn Morrill, Betty Grace Mapes, Stanley Carmela Petrucci, Dolores Stapleton, Edward Simon, Sophie Strakowski, Gordon Smith, Joseph Thoben, Cornelius Taylor, Dorothy Wilson, Betty Ann Will, Louisa DeGraff, Barbara Black, Ronald Mayes, Walter Williams, Emily Minard, Jean Sutherland, Florence Cossano, Gertrude Miller, Gertrude Hasbrouck and Gertrude Campbell.

Village Notes

New Paltz, Nov. 11.—The New Paltz Rifle Club completed its most successful out-of-door competition with the Mid-Hudson League banquet at Schoenstatt's Hotel, Saugerties, last Thursday night and the local shooters are now starting their fifth indoor season at the local range in the New Paltz Central High School. Meetings are held every Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Through the cooperation of the Future Farmers in their agriculture shop periods the local range has been completely renovated. The club has full equipment and an ample supply of targets and ammunition. Several members received medals at the Mid-Hudson banquet for their skill. Abram Paradise was awarded a fine gold medal for the highest seven-match aggregate score of 274 out of a possible 3,000. This score being the result of matches fired under all kinds of unfavorable conditions.

Mrs. Vincent Lyons, Mrs. Anne Blomstein and Harry V. Harp were among those from New Paltz who saw the Duke of Windsor and his American-born Dutchess in New York last week-end.

Washington — They were hardly a day during the Senate debate on repeal of the Neutrality Act when you couldn't get a discussion in the press galleries or the cloak-rooms of the surprising apathy both on the part of public and participants, that attended the debate.

Opponents of neutrality revision had warned that here was the last barrier to a shooting war and girded themselves for a fight which promised to match in intensity that of 24 years ago when a handful of senators talked to death President Wilson's armed neutrality bill.

The stage was set: the cast in top form. Leading the fight for repeal was Senator Tom Connally, who rushed into forensic battle like a Texas longhorn heading for a China shop. Backing him up were the administration's twin fire-eaters from the South, Senators Pepper of Florida and Josh Lee of Oklahoma. Squared off against these in the front rank of the opposition were Senators Wheeler and Nye, two battle-scarred veterans who always are in there where the smoke is thickest. With them was Senator Danaher of Connecticut, who can toss verbal knives in a half dozen directions at once. There were more worthy of mention on both sides, but that's enough.

Act I, Scene I ran true to all the glowing predictions that had been made that the battle of the session was upcoming. That opening day, the galleries were full. On the floor there was name-calling and fist-shaking and invective to pieces, disintegrated. And then the show flopped, went to pieces, disintegrated.

The audiences stayed away in droves. There were days when there was only a scattering of the faithful in the galleries and if once there were any of those long patient queques waiting their turn for seats as there have been in every other major scrap on national defense and our foreign

Text of Mediation Board's Report Is Discouraging Document With More Logic in C. I. O. Statement
 By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 12 — Industry may be rejoicing that the national defense mediation board refused to recommend a closed shop in the coal mines owned by the steel companies but the official text of the mediation board's decision is a most discouraging type of document.

The minority report signed by the two C. I. O. leaders has in it far more logic and will stand up better in the record than will the majority report. This is because the mediation board did not forthrightly reverse the stand it took in the west coast shipbuilding industry when it forced a closed shop on the Bethlehem Steel Company. Nor did the board discard its "union security" position which led to the seizure of the shipbuilding plant at Kearny, N. J.

About all the board really did was to say that it couldn't recommend a closed shop in this case because the Wagner Labor Relation law did not contemplate that the government should force such a system on the employer. Yet the Wagner law equally refuses any possible construction of the union security clause as being legal either.

For a governmental agency to impose as a prerequisite to employment that certain workers must pay dues to a union or lose their jobs while certain other workers alongside of them are free from any payment of dues because they happen not to be union members is to create a non-uniform condition that amounts really to discrimination as between workers in the same plant.

The mediation board had a great opportunity to do a constructive piece of work and satisfy both sides in the labor dispute. It could have granted the closed shop to the coal miners engaged in the steel industry but on condition that organized labor enter into a truce for the duration of the emergency never to raise the closed shop issue anywhere in the United States again.

The employers of the coal mines owned by the steel industry really had no argument against the closed shop if the principle applied by the same board in the Bethlehem case on the west coast were applied. In the latter the Bethlehem employees who were not under the closed shop constituted about 20 per cent of the total while in the coal mines in the east the percentage is 95 per cent union and 5 per cent non-union.

The mediation board failed to deal realistically with the problem by committing to reject out what everybody in Washington has known for some time, namely that the real reason the steel companies opposed the closed shop in their captive coal mines was because they didn't want the closed shop there to be used as an entering policy, I failed to see them. The country didn't seem much interested either, if the senators' mail is any criterion. The Senate postoffice reported only a slight increase in the daily mail load.

The apathy spread to the Senate floor. There were days when senators making their best speeches faced only a half dozen or so of their colleagues and 90 empty seats. When the absence of a quorum was suggested, necessitating a roll call, the clerks had to drag it out interminably and against the absentees again and again while the bells in the Senate Office Building jangled pleadingly for enough senators to get on the floor so that business might proceed.

One day, in the middle of the debate, I checked the Congressional Record appendix, where the "Extension of Remarks" always reflects the matters in hand. Out of 35 such "Extensions," only one dealt directly with the Neutrality Act and only four others considered the war from a foreign relations angle. The observations on defense strikes, price stabilization, priorities, the sad fate of small industrial plants, and defense highways far overshadowed the Neutrality Act.

There was, of course, more fire toward the finish. An approaching vote always brings them out but in between that and that promising Scene I, it was pretty listless business.

You can get as many answers as to the reasons for it as you will ask questions. One isolationist senator said: "Nobody is interested in fighting for or watching a fight for a hopeless cause."

A senator on the other side of the aisle explained it this way: "The public is thinking ahead of Congress. They are concerned the neutrality revisions passed from the first and were already giving their minds to other problems."

Whatever the cause, the lack of interest was one of the big surprises Capitol Hill has had of late.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

In May, 1922, Alderman Dick Williams, former star twirler with the old Kingston Colonials, had quit that team to twirl for the Saugerties A. C., and in his first three games that month with the Saugerties club he struck out 40 men, allowed 11 hits, and did not hit a man.

A record of 40 strikeouts in three against fast clubs is hard to duplicate.

Dick while establishing a pitching record with the Saugerties club that year was also representing his ward in Kingston's Common Council, where he also starred. Today Dick is serving as custodian of the Municipal Auditorium.

It was on Monday evening, June 5, 1922, that the late Rev. Dr. Lucas Boeve was installed as pastor of the historic old First Dutch Church, succeeding the late Rev. Dr. J. L. Leeper.

The installation sermon that night was preached by the Rev. Dr. John Knox Allen, pastor emeritus of the First Reformed Church in Tarrytown, while the charge to the pastor was given by the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

The charge to the congregation was made by the Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe.

Dr. Boeve served the uptown church as its pastor for a number of years.

The question of city zoning was a live topic in Kingston in 1922, and in June of that year the special aldermanic committee which had been studying the subject submitted a lengthy report favoring the adoption of a city zoning ordinance and recommending that an appropriation of $5,000 be made to cover the cost of the work of zoning the city.

The recommendation was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

Taking as his theme "The Life Worth While" the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley of the Fair Street Reformed Church preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Kingston High School in June, 1922.

One of the most prominent men in the manufacture of brick in this vicinity was George Washburn, who died in his home on West Chestnut street on June 24, 1922, at the age of 54 years. Mr. Washburn had also been active in politics, serving as an assemblyman at Albany from this district.

'Hot' Shovels?
 Anderson, S. C. (AP)—It might have been science or it could have been the fact that the articles were just "plain hot" but, anyway, an Andersonian was awakened from his sleep by a prowler leaving three long-handled shovels under his house. The tools had been taken from the house next door.

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

FIRST day covers will be serviced for the maiden voyages of five new cargo ships (C-2), the Surprise, Lightning, Stag Hound, Sea Serpent and Shooting Star, by the Seamen's Institute of New York.

War censorships prevent announcement of sailing dates, according to the Institute, which says foreign stamps will be used wherever possible. A rubber stamp, "Sea Serpent" certificate will assure collectors that covers were carried on the maiden voyage.

Each cover will bear a reproduction of a painting of the original clipper ship for which the new ship was named. The cachet for the Surprise is by the marine artist, Charles Robert Paterson. The one for the Lightning cachet will be by John Benson.

Proceeds from sales of the covers will go for welfare work of the Institute, especially for shipwrecked and torpedoed British crews, the Institute said. A cover costs 15 cents in money order or coins. Self-addressed return envelopes will not be accepted. Orders for the Surprise must be received by November 15. The ship will sail early in 1942.

NEW values in the Sun Yat-sen series arrived from Shanghai recently. These Chinese stamps are in values of $1.52 and $5.4.

Chung Hwa printing has perforation 12-1/2 and the same values in Dah Tung printing have perforation 14.

Fool's Paradise
Brookville, Pa.—A drilling crew shouted "Eureka" when their drill struck a "gas pocket" near this northwestern Pennsylvania community that gauged 3,000,000 cubic feet a day.

Then one of the boys investigated to see why such a flow should be only four feet underground, found an eight-inch pipe of a gas company had been tapped.

The drilling contractor will have to pay damages.

Duck Didn't Duck

Oakland, Calif.—"Mallard Duck, making a left turn without signal in the fog, collided with car and broke his neck," read Patrolman Peter J. Andicou's report to headquarters. "Duck forgot to honk."

Then he phoned Mrs. Andicou to get ready for a duck dinner. It was his patrol car the duck hit.

History Lesson

Indianapolis—Edgar T. Thornhill, 27, of Paducah, Ky., brought to the U. S. marshal's office on a charge of failing to report an address change to his Selective Service board here, explained he had been in jail.

"Are you opposed to fighting in a war?" he was asked.

"I used to be," he said, "but I ain't no more. I read a history book while I was in jail. Now I'm willin' to fight."

Messy Fellow

Kansas City—It's an old fashioned burglar who's giving police their latest headache.

In a score of recent apartment and house robberies, the nocturnal thief has left a trail of burnt matchsticks.

Last night's loot totaled $256 but he overlooked $1,300 worth of jewelry, probably—officers theorized—because of poor lighting conditions.

Doubtful Aid

Chicago—Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton of the 33rd Division, in town for the Armistice parade, told a story of one of his division officers who stopped to chat with a Tennessee farmer out in the hills.

"Kind of looks like we'll have to take care of Hitler," offered the Tennesseean. "Wonder if the Yanks will help us this time."

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, Nov. 12—At the November meeting of the Saugerties board of education it was discussed, that the tract of land opposite the present school building on Main street be developed into a playground under a WPA grant. Playground space is badly needed and this property was deeded to the Union Free School District by the late Martin Cantine.

Another matter given attention was the Camp Fire Girls be given permission to meet in the school building, their meeting night being the same as that of the boy scouts. It was reported by Superintendent of Schools Morse the receipt of a large consignment of government surplus commodities and that the Main street and Hill street schools were using this for noon day lunches.

The first meeting of the Saugerties Monday Club for this year was held last week at the home of Mrs. John Lowther on Washington avenue. The general program for the first three months will be Pan-American with Mrs. Lowther speaking on the Painting, Art, and Sculpture work of the South America countries. The next meeting will be held with Miss Margaret Emerick on Partition street when music, dancing and festivals of South America will be the topic. The regular monthly meeting of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce will be held Thursday evening, November 13. Considerable interest is being taken on the holiday street program and contributions are being received by the organization at the present time.

Dr. Guy F. Axtell and Frederick Van Voorhis both of this place have been hunting in the Adirondacks.

The Rev. Mr. T. E. Richards of Shomokin, Pa., and a former pastor in the First Congregation Church, had charge of the services in the local church, Sunday.

The annual Thanksgiving Day service of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will be held Thursday November 20 at 11 o'clock. The turkey dinner will be served in the parish hall at 12:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

Robert Cantine son of Holley R. Cantine of John street will enter a midshipman school and prepare himself for the naval service.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schwab and son of Belleville, N. J., were recent guests of Mrs. I. C. Porter on Jane street.

The R. A. Snyder Fire Company responded to an alarm Thursday morning to extinguish a stubborn chimney fire in the O'Neil property on Livingston street.

Richard Weibler of Albany was a business caller in this village the past few days.

Thomas Keeley, principal keeper of Sing Sing prison, Ossining, spent election day at his home in this village.

A Married Peoples Club has been organized in the Reformed Dutch Church with the following officers elected for the year: Martin Baker, president; Mrs. Martin Baker, vice president; John Kellernecke, treasurer. It has been decided that this organization will meet the first Wednesday of each month and meetings will be held in the church basement. The entertainment committee appointed are: Mrs. John Neander, Mrs. Alton Youngs and Mrs. Carl Warnecke.

The last meeting of the Malden Parent-Teacher Association was held Wednesday evening, October 29, at the school. The program was in honor of Halloween and prizes were awarded. The evening was enjoyed by those who attended. Richard Thorne of Market street had the misfortune to fall from a tree and fracture his left arm. Miss Julia Fogar of Glasco underwent an operation for appendicitis in the Benedictine Hospital, Thursday afternoon. Private Chester Wiand U. S. A. stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J., has received his discharge from the service and has returned to his home in this village.

Barefoot Boys

Norfolk, Va. (AP)—A "barefoot contest" started during depression days is still going strong at the Ocean View School. Miss Lucy Mason Holt, principal, reports that the contest has a devoted following every year among the students who strive to see who can go the longest without shoes before yielding to King Winter. The record so far is December 12.

Thirty missionaries are registered this term as special students in the college of agriculture at Cornell.

GINNY opened her eyes wide, then smiled. "Not entirely. Although it's no more to be con-demned than marrying for a fine plantation home."

"So that's what people are saying?"

Ginny shrugged. "Why should you care? Toby says that your Johnny's a swell person and I've made up my mind that Toby's a better judge of character than I am. I don't see why he picked me—but then, Ginny decided shrewdly, 'Toby likes nice people and I do have family.'"

"You're leaving one important thing out of this arrangement, aren't you?" asked Sue Ellen quietly.

"You mean love?" Ginny leaned over and patted the hand which wore Johnny's diamond.

"What about you? You told me over and over that you couldn't stand Johnny Harris, but you married him when he asked you. I knew that he'd bought Belle Acres the day we went out there and the sign was down in front of the house, remember? I knew in love with. Do you know, Sue, that's why I had the courage to marry Toby."

"She felt like a cheat. Suppose Ginny had made a mistake and she was responsible. Ginny was wrong; she did love the man she married. It might be true—possibly months—until Johnny would know: he would guess, he must see. But Ginny—could she love plain, clumsy, honest Toby enough to be happy with him?"

Ginny ran on and on and then said curiously: "You haven't heard a word Honey, are you still upset about Riv and Deedora?"

"Why should I be?"

Ginny stared thoughtfully at the carpet. "It must be odd for you to be married to a Yankee."

"A Yankee is no different from any other man."

Ginny pondered this. "Well, a northern girl is certainly no different from one of us. Look at Deedora Waller. She went off the deep end about Riv Moore and now she's in a jam."

"You know?"

"Everyone in Tyler Springs knows. I wonder she came back here. Do you know what I think?"

Ginny rushed on to answer her own question. "I think she's sentimental."

"Deedora?"

Ginny nodded. "All that brusque manner is so much camouflage and underneath she fell for Riv because she's much more romantic than you or me, who have married for a plantation and a grocery."

"Ginny?"

"It's the truth. Deedora came down here with one idea: to marry a handsome southern gentleman to manage the estate her father bought for her. She had a romantic picture of southern life. Stately old home with white columns and magnolias. Riv fitted into the picture, and being engaged to another girl made him more fascinating and desirable. She saw Riv as another Rhett Butler, just as these Camp Shelby soldiers see a Scarlett O'Hara in every pretty girl. Underneath the skin, a Yankee is twice as susceptible as a southerner."

"Secret Out"

THE conversation might have gone on and on, for Ginny loved to talk and was just warming to her subject, but Aunt Car appeared and settled herself at the window, and with a warning glance, Sue Ellen hinted that they had better change the conversation.

They talked about the newly formed Red Cross unit and whether or not the carpet should be cleaned at the Episcopal Church, and finally Ginny declared she must go. As Sue Ellen followed her out into the hall, she whispered: "Don't mention what I told you."

"About Deedora?"

"About me, goose. If mamma should find out my plan, she'd shut me up on bread and water until I came to my senses. And don't forget, you've promised to go over tomorrow afternoon and break the bad news to her."

"I wonder if that news about Deedora is true," said Sue Ellen as she and Ginny moved toward the street door.

"How your mind runs to Deedora Waller. She made plenty of trouble for you."

"If I could do anything to help her..."

Ginny said: "Ha! Help her? Better not offer her any pity, she doesn't hesitate to tell everyone how much she dislikes you."

Sue Ellen stood and watched through the window as Ginny paddled off in the rain, umbrella bobbing, rubbers sloshing, her red raincoat the one bright spot in the sullen sodden landscape.

When she went back to the library, Aunt Car said: "What's Ginny Fairchild hatching now?"

"Why?"

"Because mischief is written all over her face."

Before she remembered her promise, Sue Ellen said: "She's marrying Toby Tyler tomorrow."

"The Lord bless us and save us," Aunt Car's tapestry fell to her lap. "What's the South coming to, when a Fairchild marries a common crossroads grocer?"

"Waking up," said Sue Ellen briefly. "This generation of southerners is changing its sense of values. We get no satisfaction out of clinging to outmoded ideas which were right for our great-grandfathers. We're emancipated." She smiled, then sobered and added earnestly: "I promised Ginny not to tell her plans. Don't say anything to anyone about it, will you?"

Aunt Car promised. "Ginny know anything else?"

"Sue Ellen crossed across the room and bent and kissed her. 'The whole town thinks I married Johnny to get possession of Belle Acres.'"

"And does that worry you?"

"It isn't true," said Sue Ellen softly. "You know that."

Aunt Car's slender hand held Sue Ellen's fingers and held them closely. "When are you going to let your husband know that you love him?" she asked, gently.

"When I'm sure that he loves me," was Sue Ellen's answer.

The rain continued throughout the day. About two in the afternoon, Johnny called from Camp Shelby. "I may have to go away for a month," he told Sue Ellen. "I'm coming over this afternoon to wind up the signing of those papers. I want everything to be settled and Belle Acres in your name before I leave. These are uncertain times." His tone was troubled.

"There's no danger that you won't come back?"

"Try to keep me away," said Johnny, and something in his voice made her heart beat quicken.

He would be over about four, he must drive back soon after dinner. Sue Ellen left the telephone to announce that there would be a guest for dinner. "A very important guest," she told Aunt Jennie, whom she found ambling about the low-ceilinged kitchen. "My husband is coming and I want to have everything just right."

"Funny kind of a husband," muttered Aunt Jennie, who had known Sue Ellen from the day she took her first step and never hesitated to express her opinion on anything which concerned her.

"You stay head—and he stay head. Whoever heard of such nonsense."

"That's the modern way," Sue Ellen teased her.

Aunt Jennie tossed her kinky head. "That's what all these trifling no-account grandchillun of mine says. I ain' modern." She rolled her eyes. "I ain' nevah hear of a husband that don't want to make love to his wife. It ain' decent—it ain'—"

"Maybe things will be different soon," said Sue Ellen demurely. "You must remember that my husband is a soldier."

Aunt Jennie grumbled. "Soldiers! What we fightin' foah this time?"

Unasked Guest

AUNT PLEAS' announcement that Riv was downstairs and wanted to see her annoyed Sue Ellen, upset her and made her slightly uneasy. The talk with Riv earlier in the week should have convinced him that their relations were ended. She had told him flatly that she did not want to see him. Now, he had come again.

"He looks terrible. I think he has been drinking. If you don't care to see him, I'll tell him you're out or resting. I'll make some excuse."

"Then he may rush off and say or do something rash and create a lot of gossip," Sue Ellen was already slipping out of her housecoat and into a dark wool dress.

"Tell him I'll be down in a minute and make some excuse to interrupt if you hear that he is becoming loud and unmanageable."

"I don't think you should see him," Aunt Pleas insisted.

She did not tell her aunt that she was afraid not to see Riv. Always high-tempered and reckless, he might rush off downtown and express his opinion about Johnny Harris and start a new flood of gossip. Once and for all, Riv must understand that she should go about her own business and leave her alone.

When she came downstairs, she found him pacing the hall, staring up the staircase and rushing to meet her before ever she reached the last step. He caught her arm and drew her quickly into the front parlor.

He arose, strode back and forth a minute, his breath coming stormily, his black eyes flashing. "So you married the man who could give you Belle Acres," he jeered. "I've just come from the bank and learned that you were to have the place for your own while this Yankee soldier goes back east to show off his uniform. What kind of marriage is that?"

"Is that your business, Riv?"

"Yes, it is. You run off to marry me and then turn up in Tyler Springs married to someone else and the whole town is guessing why and imagining all sorts of things."

Stabile Orchestra Engaged for Ball

Avavath Israel Thanksgiving Eve Affair to Be Held at Auditorium

DICK STABILE

The fifth annual stage show and ball of Congregation Avavath Israel will be held in the municipal auditorium on Thanksgiving Eve, November 19, and Herman Rafalowsky, chairman, promises that the show and ball this year will far exceed the other balls staged by the Avavath Israel.

Dick Stabile and his orchestra will furnish the music for the ball and floor show. The vocalists with the orchestra will be Gracie Barrie, musical comedy singing star, and Gordon Roberts, romantic tenor. The Stabile "saxette" will also be one of the features of the orchestra, and in addition there will be six outstanding Broadway acts on the stage.

The master of ceremonies will be Henry Youngman of New York.

Dick Stabile is known as the master of the saxophone and he and his orchestra have played many outstanding engagements. Among them are included many of the leading hotels in New York, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Dallas, Denver, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and Syracuse.

Stabile has been a tremendous success wherever he has played. He and his orchestra have also been a great success on the radio over the National and Columbia

George Irwin Dies

Philadelphia, Nov. 12 (AP)—George M. Irwin, who before the turn of the century drove Golden Maid — then the world's fastest harness horse — on scores of eastern tracks, died yesterday. He was 93. A colleague of the famed E. F. (Pop) Geers, Irwin first became associated with trotters and pacers at the age of 12 when he exercised horses at a Louisville, Ky., track. He managed a stable for the late John J. Quinn in New York around 1900. Irwin is survived by his widow and a son.

Artificial Eyes to Be Made Movable

Doctor Invents Substitute
For German Glass.

MEXICO CITY.—The invention of an artificial eye that moves, an important contribution not only to science but also to American defense, was reported to the International Assembly of the International College of Surgeons which met here.

Dr. Theodore J. Dimitry, director of the department of ophthalmology at the Louisiana State university medical center, told the assembly that with the outbreak of war in Europe he foresaw a shortage of glass eyes in the United States. Germany has a monopoly on the manufacture of glass used in blowing glass eyes.

To forestall a glass-eye shortage, Dr. Dimitry began experimenting with two objects in view: To develop an artificial eye that would turn, and to develop an eye that could be manufactured from a substance other than glass, making the United States independent of German supply.

The results of his research were placed before the assembly. Dr. Dimitry's eye is made from acrylic resins, the substance used to manufacture Lucite. It is not blown, but is cast in a die. It is superior to the German eye because it is lighter, unbreakable and endurable. The German eye deteriorates in three years.

With the aid of color photography, Dr. Dimitry has been able to match an artificial eye perfectly with its human counterpart. The negative is developed directly on the plastic.

Dr. Dimitry found a simple solution to the mobility problem. His eye fits in the eye socket, grasping the eye muscles. The muscles turn the artificial eye just as they do the real eye. The German eye, he discovered, crowded the eye socket, making the muscles useless.

New Device Diagnoses Paralysis of Muscles

WASHINGTON.—A new method of diagnosing the chances of recovering the use of muscles damaged by infantile paralysis was demonstrated to the American Congress of Physical Therapy.

Employing a device which enables a physician to determine whether the nerves controlling the muscles are in a "good," "fair," or "hopeless" condition, its development was made possible by a grant from funds raised for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis by the President's birthday ball series.

Dr. Erich Schwabkopf, working with Dr. B. S. Troedsen and Dr. K. G. Hanson in New York hospital, developed the instrument. Their device is a combination of an oscillograph, an uncanny machine which transforms electrical energy into an electron beam which is visible on a screen, a camera which takes pictures of the beam, an amplifier which picks up electrical impulses from the body, and a projector to show the strip of movie film on which the impulses are recorded.

Working from the principle that the nerves of the body function through electrical impulses which are only about a millionth of a volt in strength, the three scientists developed a method of picking up these tiny currents by electrodes fastened to the ends of muscles, amplifying them through vacuum tubes about a million times, and projecting them on the oscillograph screen.

Navy Employs Movies to Get Facts About Wind

WASHINGTON.—The navy has applied the combined methods of Hollywood producers and streamlining engineers to collect satisfactory data for the designing of a group of buildings at the Lakehurst, N. J., lighter-than-air station.

Small-scale models of the desired structures were placed in a wind tunnel, the fans started, and "screen tests" made of the air currents.

The currents, however, had to be visible for possible photography, so smoke was blown through the wind-making device. A number of different wind velocities were created and the smoke weaved in and out and past the midjet hangars and other buildings.

The tests were carried out by the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia at the request of the bureau of yards and docks and took about one month to set up and record on film. They were made, navy men say, to insure proper design and location of the buildings in order that the entrances would not be in the path of freak air currents that might endanger or destroy the blimps and other airships as they entered or departed. The navy is highly pleased with the results.

Tobacco May Yield Oil

Switzerland is undertaking a nation-wide experiment in the production of oil for table and industrial purposes from tobacco plants.

A new decree of the Swiss public economy department provides that undisclosed portions of the tobacco harvest will be permitted to go to seed, from which the oil will be manufactured by the national food control offices. Should the experiment be successful it will be extended next year as an aid in solving the critical fat-shortage problems.

From 450 to 800 pounds of tobacco seeds may be harvested from each acre, the communiqué announcing the decree said. Tobacco seeds, it adds, contain about 40 per cent oil, which may be used for table purposes.

Uruguay Is Topic

At 20th Century Club

The 20th Century Club met at the home of Mrs. Maynard Mizel, 121 Emerson street, Monday afternoon. Two papers were presented on Uruguay.

The first was given by Mrs. Richard Boerker on the Seventh Pan-American Conference which explained the purposes of this conference as a movement toward a democratic front in face of danger and the growing cooperation among separate states which set forth the policy that is to guide them in their relation with other parts of the world.

Mrs. G. A. Whitford read a paper on public welfare and social security. It revealed that Uruguay is making great advancement promoting better health with definite regulations, improving agriculture by giving credit. There are better labor laws and labor is now well organized with definite child labor enforcement.

Mrs. George Kenny gave the roll call for the topic on the cities and rural life. She mentioned the capital city of Montevideo, one of the most important cities and the chief seaport. The other leading city is Salto and Paysandu and Froy Bentos are important meat packing centers. Rural life consists fundamentally of stock raising and Uruguay furnishes about 15 per cent of the world's meat exports.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. B. Dickinson, 152 Pearl street, November 24. The country of Paraguay will be studied.

Lighter Drama Is

Studied by Sorosis

At the Monday meeting of Sorosis, lighter works of drama along the social comedies line were studied. Mrs. Grover Lasher of Lucas avenue was hostess to the club.

Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw gave an introductory setting for the study of the afternoon by relating some of the customs and popular plays of the day. The Merry Widow Waltz from the show of the same name was typical of the period and the waltz was giving way to the newer type of dance such as the "Bunny Hug."

Mrs. Ward Brigham reading the paper for the day, gave a resume of the play "The Famous Mrs. Fair," by James Forbes. She also spoke of Booth Tarkington who was writing at that time and of his book "Penrod."

Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. Howard Lewis on West Chestnut street. The paper on Plays of Ideas: 1910 to 1920 will be presented by Mrs. Arthur Laidlaw.

Garden Club To Hold

Exhibition and Sale

The Ulster Garden Club will hold an exhibition for sale of gourds at Burgevin's, Fair street, Friday and Saturday. The gourds have been raised by the members of the club and prepared for fall table decorations.

They will be on sale singly or in group arrangements. This project is being carried on in conjunction with the Garden Club of America for its defense program fund. The committee which has arranged for the sale and exhibition are Mrs. William Van Benschoten, Mrs. Hermon A. Kelley and Mrs. George V. D. Hutton.

Tri-Hi To Have

First Aid Classes

Monday night, November 10, the Tri-Hi Club of the Y. W. C. A. held its regular meeting. The guest speaker was Mrs. Herbert C. Fister, who gave a most interesting review of the book, "Reckon With the River," by Clark McKeenan. A short business meeting was held at which it was suggested that a first aid course be held every Monday night after the regular meeting. Miss Katherine Bannon and Mrs. Stuart Wylie will be the instructors.

November Bride

MRS. EDWARD KELLY

Miss Audrey Blanche Rowe, daughter of Mrs. Jane F. Rowe of Rahway, N. J., and Edward John Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kelly of Jersey City, were married Saturday, November 1, at 4 p. m., at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church, New York city, by the Rev. Father Turbett, S. J. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James Rowe. The wedding march was played by the church organist, Miss Ethel Kalter, a concert soloist, sang "Ave Maria" and "Pon-tus Angelicum."

The bride's dress was of white broadcloth, satin, empire style, sweetheart neckline, with train, full length tulle veil, flowing from a coronet corresponding to the neckline. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and orchids. The maid of honor, Miss Marie McCarthy of Jersey City, cousin of the bridegroom, wore crimson velvet and carried bronze chrysanthemums. The five bridesmaids were attired in varying fall shades of velvet. They were: Miss Shirley Douglas of Freehold, Miss Myrtle Gill of Long Beach, Miss Shirley Brown of New York city, Miss Katherine North of Walton, and Miss Elaine Nestor of Teaneck, all of whom were associates of the bride when she attended New Jersey College for Women.

The best man was Eugene McCarthy of Jersey City, a cousin of the bridegroom; ushers, Joseph O'Sullivan of Yonkers, John Mc-Donough, Lawrence Kunz of Brooklyn, Lawrence Cook of the Bronx, and Edward Murphy, Jersey City.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at Hotel Wellington, where 100 guests participated from this city, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Newark, New York city, Kingston, Schenectady and elsewhere. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly are on a trip through northern New York and the New England states and will reside temporarily in Jersey City.

The wedding took place in the church where the bridegroom, as a pupil in St. Xavier School, served as altar boy. He is a graduate of Francis Xavier Military School and is a flight instructor at the Bendix airport. Mrs. Kelly is a graduate of Curtis High School, Staten Island, and attended the New Jersey College for Women. She was born in Kingston and has spent vacations at Bloomington.

Resolutions Adopted

At Lowell Club

Yesterday the Lowell Club was entertained at luncheon at Julie's by Mrs. William Longyear. Eighteen members were present and later the club met for the regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. J. Murphy, Jr., on Pearl street. The president, Mrs. J. A. Guttridge presided at the business session. Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Oscar Edwards as prepared by Mrs. W. D. Delaplane, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden and Mrs. Arthur Cole were read and adopted.

Mrs. Edwards had been a charter member of the club and one of its most devoted members serving as treasurer for many years. She had always cooperated in every way with the program and officers of the organization.

The program for the day was on the topic of Chile. Mrs. Longyear presented a paper on the country which told of the various minerals to be found. Because of the mountain ranges, cultivation is rather limited with maize being raised in the northern sections and wheat and barley in the south. Fruit is also raised and the climate is similar to that of Scotland. Three thousand families occupy about four-fifths of the land.

The story of the boundary dispute between Argentina and Chile which ended by arbitration and the erecting of the statue of "Christ of the Andes" was told by Mrs. O. D. B. Ingalls.

Next week the club will meet at the home of Mrs. John Saxe in West Hurley.

Lost and Found

Orleans, France (AP)—Not everybody was the loser in the great battle which accompanied France's defeat in 1940. Some people were winners. The latest story is about 216 pearls of great price in search of their owner. They were found in a swamp near the village of Oison, where a farmer came upon a case containing three million francs' worth of jewelry while tilling his field. Nobody has yet claimed them.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

MUCH ADO ABOUT LITTLE

Just as it is always difficult to reply to sons or daughters who disagree with their parents, it is difficult to answer an employee who disagrees with his or her employer about a detail of etiquette.

Today's disagreement is that of a butler whose new employer has directed him to answer the telephone, "Mrs. Blank's residence."

In the larger houses where I have worked as footmen with many English butlers, who in my mind are tops about such things, they always said, "Hello. For my own information, which of the two is right?"

To this I agree that "Hello" was yesterday considered best form, and is still said in most conservative houses. The increasing tolerance (rather than approval) of "Mrs. Blank's residence" is undoubtedly due to the business answer, "Mr. Blank's office." Personally, I should much prefer "Mrs. Blank's house," or "Mrs. Blank's apartment." It may be that this particular Mrs. Blank does not intend to insist on "residence." It may be merely that she dislikes "hello." In any case, for so long as you remain with Mrs. Blank, you must of course go as you have been directed.

Wearing Flowers at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it wrong for members of the bridegroom's immediate family to wear corsages to the wedding? My sister and I are of the opinion that we were treated shabbily because we wanted to wear flowers and mentioned to my brother that we were ordering them. He said that he would send them. The day of the wedding no flowers arrived for us, and afterward he told us that he forgot to tell us that the bride had mentioned this to the florist and had been told that it was not proper for us to wear them.

Answer: I've never heard of such nonsense! There is no rule against any woman's wearing a corsage, anytime, anywhere. She may even wear one out in the morning—if she happens to have one that she does not want to leave at home to bloom unseen in the ice-box! And while it may not be considered necessary that each member of the bridegroom's family be given one, or for that matter even that the bride's mother be given one, it is certainly customary that as many as may wish to wear flowers, do so! I can't imagine any florist given this contrary information.

BOOKLET ON LEFTOVERS TELLS HOW TO TURN DRY CAKE INTO AN EXCITING PUDDING

Don't despair because the family is stubborn about that stale cake. And don't discard it, either! Just dress it up, serve as Tipsy Pudding, and no one except a sleuth will ever suspect the deception. Here's the recipe, taken from the Leftover Cookbooklet, the second in a series now being offered to readers of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Tipsy Pudding
3 egg yolks
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
1 tablespoon sherry
6 slices of spongecake
Whipped cream

Beat egg yolks and add sugar and salt. Add scalded milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cook in the top of a double boiler until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add sherry. Cool. When custard is cold, pour it over slices of sponge cake or any plain dry cake and cover with whipped cream. Garnish with chopped nuts, if desired. Serves 6.

Included in the Leftover booklet are dozens of helpful recipes and hints on using up odds and ends of jams and jellies, too, such as the following:

Marmalade Strips
Pastry Roll-overs
Fruit Turnovers
Jelly-Centered Sugar Cookies
Orange Marmalade Rolls
Jelly Corn Muffins
and many others.

There are hundreds of easy-to-make and interesting suggestions and recipes for making use of left-over bread, cake, eggs, fish, meat, fowl, vegetables, fruits, sour milk and cream. From soups to desserts, your meals will be more delicious and economical.

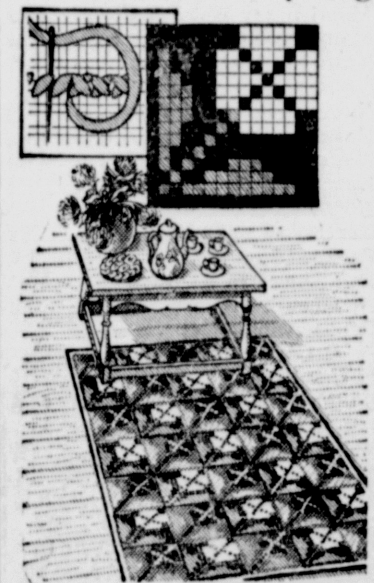

Best of all, the Leftovers Booklet is so easy to own. It's ready for you today and may be obtained for only 15c and one coupon from page 2 of The Kingston Daily Freeman from the nearest distributor listed upon the coupon or if you prefer, remit 15c with mail order coupon from page 2 to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Freeman Square, Cookbooklet Dept., Kingston, N. Y.

A luscious disguise for leftover bread is Brazil-Nut Bread Pudding —the simple recipe is in the new Cookbooklet, "500 Delicious Dishes from Leftovers," ready for you now.

Colorful Cross-Stitch Makes This Lovely Rug

All Crosses in Same Direction

The individual touch that makes your home charming—a handmade cross-stitch rug! Or RUGS—for you can make several with fast, sturdy cross-stitch!

The first thing is to rule squares on your rug canvas (35 squares on a 26-by-35-inch piece) leaving a 1 1/2-inch margin on all sides.

Then to stitch, following for each square our pattern diagram. Each little block stands for one cross-stitch; the shades are for colors—peach, turquoise, brown. In alternate squares you might have turquoise, orchid, cerise.

Your stitching's done with fat rug yarn. Each stitch in the row working to the right, should be from lower left to upper right. Coming back over these stitches, cross from lower right to upper left—all crosses in the same direction!

After completing all squares, makes a border of one row of turquoise and one brown and stitch canvas to denim backing.

Our 32-page booklet has detailed instructions and diagrams for making this rug; also shows how to make lovely hooked, woven, braided and crocheted rugs. Includes Oriental, Navajo, novel styles.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of "How To Make Your Own Rugs" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Big Ben of the West

Hays, Kas. (AP)—Motorists are surprised to see a gigantic clock standing in a field between Hays and Victoria, Kas. The thing cost $4,837 and was installed in the cupola of a barn in 1880 for Robbins Battell, wealthy English landowner. The barn was destroyed by wind in 1901. The clock was repaired and placed in the field where it is visible from a transcontinental highway. Battell saw the clock once in the 41 years he owned the farm.

Right Type of Spring Needed for 'Sweet Sleep'

"Sweet sleep" is not only a matter of a good mattress, but of having the right type of spring for that particular mattress.

First, of course, there is the familiar box-spring, which consists of a wooden frame into which the metal springs are securely anchored and over which there is first an entire layer of padding, the whole surface covered with ticking, generally in a damask or other ornamental type of weave, and in attractive colors. Once expensive, the box-spring is now within reach of most moderate budgets; in combination with the innerspring mattress to which it is superseding fitted, it makes a handsome sleeping equipment which is insect-proof, easy to brush and keep clean, and which permits a bed to be made up in a firm, imposing mode.

Second, there is the coil spring set in a metal frame. One should ask for "double-deck coils" because the former are longer and more resilient, and hence more comfortable.

Third, there is what is known as the open-coil spring: these are soft and flexible and are made to be used with a pad or solid type mattress, and should never be used at all with any innerspring mattress because they are too soft and yielding. When you are changing your beds around, never place an innerspring mattress on top of an open coil spring, as this combination does not work but will give a sliding, slithering effect to the bed as a whole, and induce restless sleep.

Knox Sentences Bioff and Brown

Bioff Gets 10 Years and $20,000 Fine; Brown 8 Years, Same Fine

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Federal Judge John C. Knox today sentenced William Bioff to 10 years in prison and a $20,000 fine and George E. Brown to eight years and $20,000 for violation of the federal anti-racketeering law.

Brown, former president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, A. F. L., and Bioff, his personal representative, were convicted of extorting about $550,000 from the motion picture industry.

The government charged they had used their labor leadership to extort large sums on threat of strike.

They were convicted last week on an indictment of three counts, the first two of which charged violation of the federal anti-racketeering law and the third conspiracy.

Judge Knox sentenced Bioff to 10 years on each count, the sentence on the second to run concurrently with that of the first. He suspended sentence on the third, placing Bioff on parole for 10 years after he serves his time.

The court sentenced Brown to eight years on each of the first two counts, the sentences to run concurrently. As in the case of Bioff he suspended sentence on the third count and placed Brown on parole for eight years.

Both men were dressed smartly and showed little emotion at the sentencing, beyond a slight flush.

Bioff, heavyset and short, stared mostly at the floor and rubbed his hands across his face several times.

Ant Lion Solves Food Problem by Digging Pit

When someone speaks of an "ant lion," we may think of an insect in the shape of an ant. The fact is that the full-grown insect looks far more like a dragonfly than like an ant.

The ant lion is nearly the same size as a dragonfly, but it does not hold its wings straight out when it alights. It folds the wings lengthwise over the body.

The female lays eggs about the ground, usually only one in each spot. From an egg comes a larva which grows to a length of about half an inch. It is the larva which has earned the name of "ant lion."

The larva has no wings, but it has half a dozen legs which can be used for walking. It isn't very good at walking in a forward direction; mo.e. often it walks backward.

Food is a problem of the larva, and it has a clever way of obtaining it. Digging a small, funnel-shaped pit, it makes a trap for ants.

At the bottom of the pit, with only its head in sight. Then along come ants which tumble in. When they reach the bottom, they are seized and partly eaten.

Thanks to such food, the ant lion grows to a point where it is ready for the next step in its life. Then it spins a silken cocoon, forming a small round ball.

The cocoon stage lasts two or three weeks. At the end, it comes forth as an insect with four wings. A full-grown adult has a body about an inch long. It flies about in the twilight, perhaps having no memory of the time it was a larva in a pit, waiting for ants to fall down.

Taber Urges Americans Stop Profits Struggle

National Grange Leader Says This Would Aid Government to Reach Goal

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP)—Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, urged Americans today to "stop the struggle for prices, wages and profits" and help the government achieve unlimited defense production and redeem its pledge of material aid to those fighting Hitler.

"The Grange," he said, "challenges labor, business and finance to join with agriculture in unlimited production."

Earlier, a message from President Roosevelt was read to the Grange delegates, asserting it was the nation's supreme task to make the ideals of "a proper equality, equity and fairness" prevail through democratic action and to make America "strong and free and neighborly in a changing world."

"We can do it. We must do it. We are doing it," the President said.

Mr. Roosevelt added that he had been a member of the Grange for more than 25 years, and continued:

"In the course of my membership I have often thought of the creed and purposes which members of the order adopted and announced at their national organization meeting in 1873 at Georgetown, D. C.

"We desire," said the founders, "a proper equality, equity and fairness; protection for the weak, restraint upon the strong. . . . These are American ideals, the very essence of American independence."

"All of us subscribe," the President added, "to these ideals and principles. Our supreme task is to make them prevail through democratic action."

"I know that Grange members, as well as all other American citizens, will continue to do their part to make and keep America strong and free and neighborly in a changing world."

Taber in a keynote speech prepared for the opening session of the 75th annual meeting of the farm organization, added:

"No person has the right by word or deed to slow up production in national defense, or to check the flow of materials that our government has solemnly promised to Britain and her allies."

New York egg production in September this year amounted to 10.4 million dozens, which was nearly 11 per cent more than in September, 1940.

Another Hunting Mishap Reported

Floyd Miller, 18, Is Hit Near East Kingston

Octave Perry, Jr., of Newkirk avenue and his friend, Floyd Miller, 18, of 147 Hasbrouck avenue, with the former's dog, went rabbit hunting Tuesday afternoon in a woodlot near East Kingston, not far from the Flatbush road.

Perry got a rabbit that his dog started up, but he also got his friend, who had moved into a position near enough to the line of fire so that at least two of the flying pellets struck him, one in the head and another in the chest.

The boys walked out to the Flatbush road, where Joseph J. Nerone of 24 Ponckhockie street, who was passing, stopped and took Miller to the Kingston Hospital. At the hospital this morning it was said that he did not appear to be seriously injured and his condition was apparently fair.

Perry reported the accidental shooting to the sheriff's office Tuesday night. He said that the dog started a rabbit and that he had told his friend to take a position at a certain point some distance to one side, with the idea that the rabbit would be driven in such a way that either of them could get a shot at it.

Shortly afterward, he stated, he saw the rabbit coming through some tall grass or brush, and fired. It was only then, he said, that he discovered that Miller had moved from the place in which he supposed he was stationed and had been struck by some of the scattering shot. Perry told Night Jailor Ellsworth that two of the shot had struck his friend.

Farm Bureau Unit Reports on Effort For New Members

More than 80 Farm Bureau committeemen met at the Stuyvesant Hotel in Kingston Tuesday evening and reported 605 paid memberships for 1942. This is over 25 more than the number reported a year ago. Definite promises and territory still to be covered indicate that the goal of 866 members for 1942 will be realized. This would be the highest Farm Bureau membership in nine years.

DeWitt G. Crowell, president of the Farm Bureau, presided at the check-up supper. The program included selections by Sam Scudder, reports by each of the 18 community chairmen and a motion picture entitled "Bill Howard, R.F.D." The Flatbush-Lake Katrine community of which W. T. Hookey is chairman, and Gardner, Raymond DuBois, chairman, made particularly good reports. Each of these men reported the same number of members they had last year along with several definite promises.

The committeemen will complete the follow-up within the next few days and final reports will be given at the annual business meeting to be held early in December. In general the reports Tuesday night were encouraging and numerous new members were reported in most communities.

Boy Is Slightly Injured In Broadway Accident

Kenneth W. Stewart, 11, of Maplecrest, was struck by an auto driven by Cosmo Costello of 87 German street, while on Broadway Tuesday afternoon. The boy escaped with a slight shock and brush burns to his left side and did not require hospitalization.

According to the report of the accident made by Mr. Costello to the police department he was driving his car on Broadway and while between Pine Grove avenue and Hoffman street, the boy ran into his car and struck his back and head on the fender and was knocked down.

Mr. Costello said that the boy was about one-third of the way across Broadway and was holding his father's hand, and that as he approached in his car the boy dropped his father's hand and started to run and ran directly into the automobile.

Edward Forbes Held

Edward Forbes of Pine Hill, charged with public intoxication on Tuesday, was held for a hearing later in police court. According to the police report Forbes was found lying on the West Shore railroad tracks, near the Broadway crossing, John Lewis Wanke, Jr., of Brooklyn, a member of Company M, 34th Infantry, 8th Division, of Fort Jackson, S. C., was also arrested last night on a charge of public intoxication, and held for a hearing later.

To Be Speaker

Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw will be the guest speaker at the noonday meeting of Kiwanis Thursday. Mr. Laidlaw's talk will be in the nature of a contribution to the nation-wide observance of American Education Week. He will speak on "Education and Business."

Electric Eye Sees Protein
To the versatile "electric eye" has been given the new task of determining the protein content of wheat, grain, specialists of the United States department of agriculture report. In making tests with the new apparatus the wheat is ground and the proteins extracted by chemical means.

By the addition of other chemicals, the glutinous proteins are brought into a stable colloidal suspension. A beam of light is focused on a standard tube containing the suspension. Part of the light is prevented from passing through by the protein present. Thus the amount of light that does pass indicates the protein content.

A nearly automatic photometer equipped with an electric eye or photoelectric cell does the measuring.

Pawnshop Ticket Brings Arrest in Michigan Slaying

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP)—A pawnshop receipt for a $5 loan on a woman's wrist watch provided the solitary clue that led to the arrest of Winford W. Smith, 35-year-old taxicab driver, in connection with the rape-slaying of Wandamary Wheatley, 20-year-old teletype operator, Saginaw county sheriff's officers said today.

Sheriff Hugo A. Muehlenbeck said Smith declared in a formal statement last night to Assistant County Prosecutor Roland Montgomery that he bludgeoned the girl to death the night of November 3 when she threatened to inform police of his attack.

Smith, father of a four-week-old daughter, was held under heavy guard at Flint, 33 miles away, while officers prepared to bring a first-degree murder charge against him today.

Shortly after his arrest late yesterday a crowd of approximately 200 persons gathered at the Saginaw county jail, but sheriff's officers said no attempt was made to enter the building and Smith was moved to safer quarters as a precaution against any attempted violence.

congratulated the nine mediation board members who recommended a union shop in the captive coal mines. He said they had upheld the Constitution of the United States.

He denounced the "destructive so-called labor leaders of the C. I. O." and said Murray and Kennedy did not "belong on any board at any time."

Decision Nears On Coal Mine

spokesman said the settlement proposal was based upon a new interpretation by the navy on lump-sum government projects which would allow the contractors to pay the scale demanded by the unions.

A labor decision of tremendous importance was in the making at Chicago. The representatives of 900,000 railroad workers—the 14 non-operating crafts—met there to decide whether to strike in order to enforce their demands for higher pay.

Recommendations Increases

A fact-finding board appointed by President Roosevelt under the railway mediation act has recommended increases of nine cents an hour, averaging 13½ per cent, in contrast to the employees' demand for pay hikes of 30 to 40 cents an hour over the present scales which range from 35 to 85 cents.

The five operating brotherhoods, representing 350,000 workers, have rejected the board's recommendation in their case, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen have said they would begin a previously authorized strike December 5. The operating crafts had demanded a 30 per cent wage boost. The board recommended 7½ per cent. The lowest paid of the operating men now receive $5.06 a day.

For a while yesterday, there was a threat that a welders' walk-out in Los Angeles county shipyards might be renewed, but that threat was removed last night when Karl V. Morris, president of the Independent United Welders, Cutters and Helpers Union, told members of his organization that A.F.L. and C.I.O. union officials had agreed not to discriminate against the independent welders.

The independents are seeking union recognition, and have a case pending before the mediation board at Washington.

However, a new strike arose at the $20,000,000 naval ordnance plant near Canton, Ohio, where A.F.L. installation workers announced they would walk out today because they have been unable to obtain collective bargaining rights from the National Labor Relations Board. Their inability to obtain such rights, they said, has opened the way for raiding by a C.I.O. union. The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company operates the plant under a lease agreement with the government.

Three hundred C.I.O. employees of the Mack Manufacturing Corporation at New Brunswick, N. J., voted last night to strike and establish a picket line. The plant employs 1,700 and has contracts to make $10,000,000 worth of transmissions for medium tanks.

The C.I.O. union recently lost an N.L.R.B. election. Leaders said they would ask the company for a blanket 15-cent hourly wage increase. Present wage scales were not disclosed.

About 250 A.F.L. men employed in the processing plant of the Hiram Walker and Sons distillery at Peoria, Ill., struck last night for a closed shop and overtime pay for Saturday and Sunday work. The company said the strike might cause the loss of thousands of dollars worth of grain now in the fermenting vats.

GRANGE NEWS

Rosendale

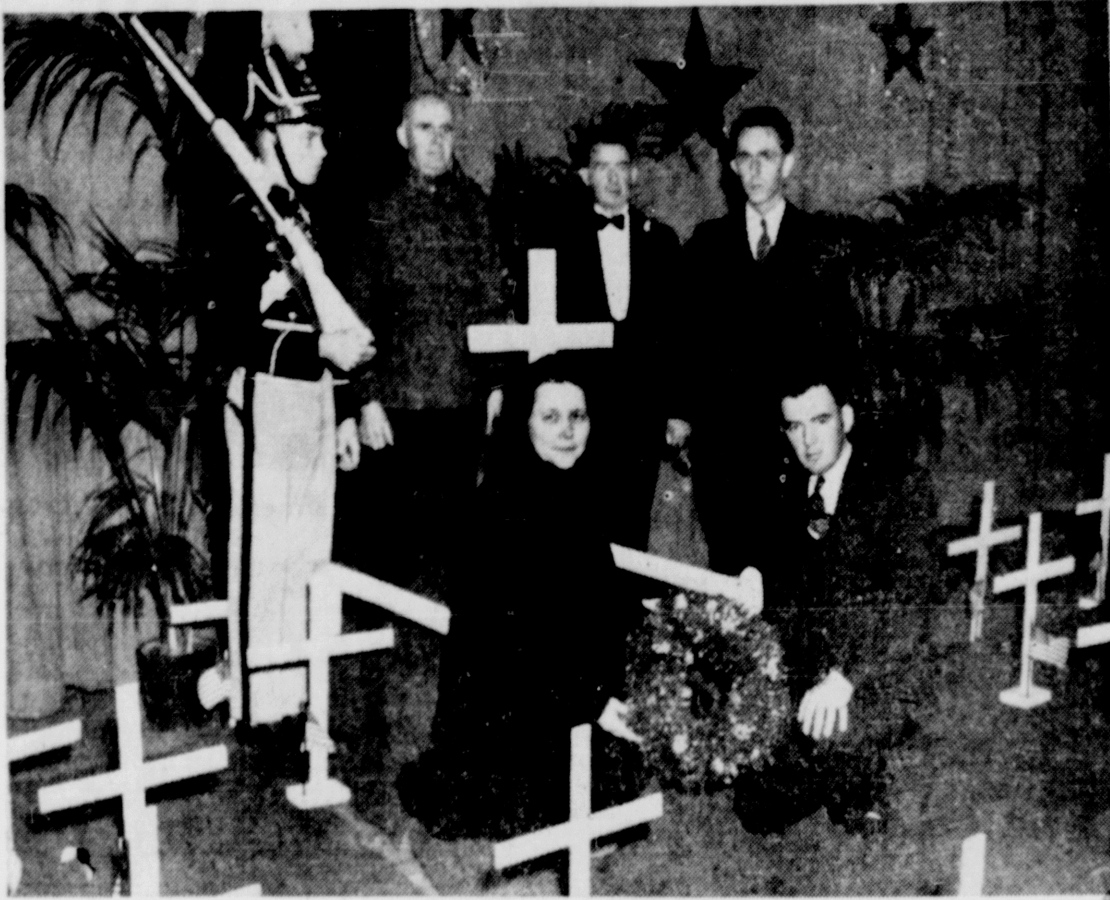

Romeyn Berry, a practical dirt farmer from central New York state, who is widely known for his sound and amusing lectures and writings on his farming experiences, will speak at the meeting of the Rosendale Grange on Tuesday evening, November 18.

In addition to the address by Mr. Berry a film, "Broken Fences," will be shown in the Grange Hall in Rosendale. The story recounts the adventures of a "new farmer," a city man who bought a farm, and thought all there was to it was to plow the ground, plant the seed, and then sit back and wait.

The film was made in Hollywood and the parts, two farmers, hero and heroine, and supporting character roles, are well cast.

The public is invited to attend the meeting and there will be no admission charge.

Bose Trip to Axis Territory Gives British Concern

ticism, and there is small doubt that this will be a feature of any Axis campaign, as it was of the Germans in the World War. We likely shall hear from our old thrill, the Fakir of Ipi, the black-bearded, wild-eyed, dare-devil horseman who is known as the Holy Terror of the Khyber Pass, up on the northwest frontier. He specializes in keeping the savage tribesmen of that mountainous area in revolt.

Robin Hood of Northwest

Then there is the Fakir of Alingar—Robin Hood of the northwest frontier. For a generation he has been leading his followers against the British outposts, and some nasty shows these barbarians put on, too. I saw some of it myself during the last war, when I rode with 4,000 British cavalry and foot soldiers while they rounded up over 600 savage Mohmands near the Khyber Pass.

These two fakirs are but two of many leaders operating throughout the vastness of India. They represent one of Britain's greatest problems.

The fifth columnists also will pay much attention to Bengal Province, and especially to Calcutta. This area always has been notorious as a hideout for seditionists. Bose, by the way, was twice elected mayor of Calcutta, once while he was in prison.

Actually, any fifth column drive is likely to encounter tough sledding. Oddly enough, Gandhi may be the one who will give the government its best protection, for thus far he has been able to hold his people in line in any emergency. Also Mahendra Nath Roy, former international revolutionary, has decided that smashing Fascism is the most important task of the moment and is leading his large labor following in support of the government.

Then again, the independence movement is confined largely to British India, and one finds little of it in the many native states ruled by powerful princes. Each of these nabobs maintains his own standing army, and since many of them have the power of life and death over their subjects, the states are rather arid ground for sedition.

Last but not least, the British government maintains in India one of the most complete secret services in the world. It covers the country like a net.

Four Are Missing In Powder Blast In Illinois Plant

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP)—In an explosion heard 40 miles away, a powder mill operating under a war department contract blew up today in wooded hills west of Peoria, causing several casualties.

Four men were reported missing and presumably dead.

Officials said another man might be dead and that several were injured.

Federal agents took charge and hunted for evidence of sabotage at the plant, located near Edwards, 12 miles west of here. It was operated by the Western Powder Manufacturing Company, a subsidiary of the Western Cartridge Company.

Company spokesmen said the plant was producing a specific type of powder for the war department. At least two buildings were destroyed in a double explosion, apparently starting in a hydraulic press unit and followed immediately by a bigger blast at the Corning mill 6,000 feet away went up, touched off by a fragment.

The current freight volume moving by motor truck is about 30 per cent above last year, the Department of Commerce says.
